

Art Auction To Benefit Beferendum

An art sale to benefit the Beferendum will be a highlight of the 1979 National Angus Outlook Conference, set for July 1-2-3 in Fort Collins, Colorado, said Dr. C. K. Allen, executive vice-president of the American Angus Association.

Cattlemen who attend the Conference will have an opportunity to bid on five limited edition, signed and numbered, reproductions of a new Frank Murphy oil painting that will be featured on the cover of the July Angus Journal.

This new bull head art by artist Frank Murphy, Chicago, Illinois, is taken from the new oil painting by Murphy that will be featured in the "Quarter-Century of Angus History" art show July 1, at the 1979 National Angus Outlook Conference in Fort Collins, Colorado.

The Frank Murphy painting and number 1 of the signed prints will be unveiled on Sunday evening, July 1 at a gala Quarter-Century of Angus History art show on the Colorado State University Campus. The one-man show will feature the work of noted American Angus Association artist Frank Murphy, who will be at the event.

The auction of the first five prints, with all the money to go to support the Beferendum, will be Tuesday Afternoon.

Frank Murphy is one of America's top livestock artists. He has done all the artwork for the American Angus Association since the early 1950's. This includes 15 oil paintings, many of which will be on display at the show, plus drawings for all of the Angus Association print advertisements until the 1970's when the national program was changed to feature actual animal photographs. Many of the original sketches and finished drawings for the Angus ads will also be on display at the art show.

Over the years the American Angus Association has produced framing prints of some of Murphy's paintings including the historical painting that was featured on the 1973 postage stamp and the famous Angus calf and butterfly painting. Many of these prints are now collectors items, as they are no longer in print. The Association still has a quantity of some of the prints including the historical painting, International Livestock Exposition scene and calf and butterfly. These prints will also be available for purchase at the Quarter-Century of Angus History art show.

Theme of the 1979 National Angus Outlook Conference is "Planning For Profit". The two-day program will be designed to help cattlemen increase their efficiency in the areas of cattle production, reproduction and merchandising. It is being billed by the Association as the "Angus Event of 1979".

Cattlemen who register for the Conference in advance will be eligible to win one of two new Angus road signs that will be introduced at the Outlook Conference. Individual registration fees are ten dollars for adults, 18 years and over, and five dollars for youngsters under 18 years of age. A special family registration fee of twenty dollars covers an entire immediate family, regardless of number. To register, or for additional information including a copy of the printed program, write American Angus Association, 3201 Frederick Boulevard, St. Joseph, Missouri 64501.

Block And Bridle Club Honors Hillman

Howard Hillman, a well-known registered Angus breeder from Canova, South Dakota, was recognized as an honorary member of the South Dakota State University Block and Bridle Club during their Awards Banquet. The event took place in April at the Valstorff Ballroom in the Student Union on campus.

Featured speaker was Glenn Klippenstein of Maysville, Missouri, a prominent registered Angus and Hereford breeder.

Also on the evening's program was a presentation of scholarships; awards to outstanding members, judging contest winners and the past year's judging team.

Noba Sire Directory

A colorful new Beef Sire Directory is just off the press and available from Noba. This 1979 book contains pictures, pedigrees and complete details on 63 bulls from 18 different breeds, including some of the nations most popular sires.

The 1979 Noba Beef Bull Book can be obtained by contacting, Noba, Incorporated, P.O. Box 607, Tiffin, Ohio 44883 or phone 419/447-6262.

Indiana Field Day Set For June 17

The Indiana State Angus Field Day will be held on Sunday, June 17 at Conards' Valley-View Farms near Bloomington, reports Dick Beck, regional manager for the American Angus Association.

As part of the program the Indiana Junior Angus Association will conduct a judging contest in addition to a semen auction. Proceeds from the donated semen and A.I. Certificates will be used by the group to host the 11th National Junior Angus Heifer Show July 19-20 in Indianapolis.

Featured speaker will be Louis "Mick" Colvin, director of the Certified Angus Beef Program of the American Angus Association.

A tour of Valley-View Farms will conclude the day's activities.
