

Friday, Ju

Under the Western Sky

► Junior members with owned heifers take to the showing early Friday morning. A total of 595 owned heifers were shown. cb

► The owned heifer show continues into Saturday following the showmanship competition finals. The 2001 NJAS drew 558 exhibitors who traveled from 35 states to be a part of the event. lz

► Above: Showmanship competitors begin the first round of competition Friday afternoon. At its conclusion, 15 are selected to be in the final round to vie for top showman. lz

► Left: The Advisor of the Year and Honorary Angus Foundation awards are presented Friday morning during the owned heifer show. Other awards are announced Friday evening at the National Junior Angus Association (NJAA) awards function. For more coverage, see page 202. lz

July 13

► For NJAA Board candidates, who hail from 11 different states, meeting and talking with other NJAA members at the National Junior Angus Show (NJAS) is their main form of campaigning. They are not allowed to use buttons, cards, stickers, fliers, pens or any other promotional items. cb

► For 11 juniors, the moment of truth comes with the collection of ballots at the NJAA election. Only six members would be chosen. New Board members are announced Friday evening at the NJAA awards function. lz

► A popular part of the NJAA awards function is the annual slide show, which incorporates photographs of participants and their families during the week. The slide show is presented on a huge screen in the middle of the showing. lz

CONTINUED ON PAGE 188