

Bill Wilson of Premier Angus Inc., Cloverdale, Ind., lined up the Futurity entries. As usual, competition was strong and enthusiasm ran high in the Louisville barns.

SUPREME CHAMPION
QLC Winchester

The 3-6-81 son of Fairfield Hi Guy was exhibited by Quirk Land & Cattle Co., K&K Cattle, Fairfield Farms and Harmon Angus. Measuring 61 1/4 inches at the hip and weighing 2,205 lb., he was first named senior and grand champion bull.

GRAND CHAMPION HEIFER

Grahams Lucky Lady

The 4-11-82 daughter of Fairfield Hi Guy, bred and owned by John Graham, was exhibited by Garney Angus and Melco Cattle Co. She stood 56½ inches tall at the hip and was slapped late junior champion.

The American Angus Breeders' Futurity

Louisville, Aug. 1-2

Once again, the American Angus Breeders' Futurity was a statement in breed enthusiasm. And a bold one at that.

Many of the nation's strongest contenders found their way to Kentucky's Fair and Exposition Center to vie for a share of the glitter. And the record crowd that came to witness this annual affair's 36th version served as a solid indicator of positive feelings. The event, dedicated to Paul Good of Van Wert, Ohio, was a suitable tribute to the enthusiastic Angus breeder and auctioneer.

After lining up 165 head, judge Bill Wilson of Premier Angus Inc., Cloverdale, Ind., slapped QLC Winchester supreme champion—climaxing two eventful days. No newcomer to the tan bark or the purple, this March 1981 son of Fairfield Hi Guy was exhibited by Quirk Land & Cattle Co., Hastings, Neb.; K&K Cattle, Kearney, Neb.; Fairfield Farms, Lakeville, Conn.; and Harmon Angus, Lavina, Mont. The senior champion stood 61¼ inches tall at the hip and outweighed all contenders for the grand champion title at 2,205 lb.

The Futurity's leading lady also boasted impressive measurements—Grahams Lucky

Lady leveled the stick at 56½ inches before wending her way to the top of 103 heifers. The April 1982 Fairfield Hi Guy daughter, bred and owned by John Graham, Gilman, Iowa, had recently swept the bred-and-owned division of the National Junior Angus Show in Des Moines, Iowa, and had made a strong debut in Denver earlier this year. Garney Angus of Afton, Okla., and Melco Cattle Co. of Lancaster, S.C., joined Graham as exhibitors of the late junior and grand champion.

Reserve grand champions Cracker Jack Brutus 512 and Wetonkas Erica 233P are veteran winners and well known in Angus circles, too. Jim Baldrige of The Baldrige Place, North Platte, Neb., and LeRoy Erdmann of Erdmann Angus Ranch, Wetonka, S.D., shared interests in both late junior yearlings. S/2 Angus of Point Reyes Station, Calif., and Leo's Angus of Garden City, Mo., are also owners of the young bull. The pair had already collected purple in Reno and Denver this year.

Competition for the top titles was stiff—hopefuls in the final lineup of bulls included such power as junior calf champion WAF

Status Symbol, senior calf champion RCT Appollo, intermediate champion Transition, and early junior champion Skarship Mr Stetson.

Among the females, Wilson selected his winners over junior calf champion Gunston Margarita, senior calf champion TC Peggy Sue 2135, intermediate champion R&J Miss Esso 1842, and early junior champion Queen Idelette 6P.

Cow-calf classes at the Futurity are always attention-earners and this year was no exception. Numbers may have been small, but quality was high.

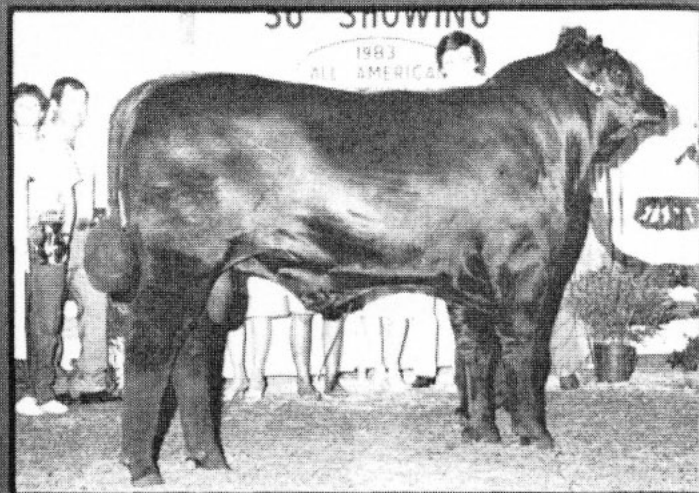

Reserve junior heifer calf champion TC Peggy Lee 3001 paired power with her dam TC Peg 0111 to win the natural calf division and grand champion banner for TC Ranch, Franklin, Neb. Three-time Futurity champion R&J Duchess 1259 stepped into reserve position with reserve senior heifer calf champion Mamies Gal at her side. Embryo transplant division winner, the pair was exhibited by R&J Ranch, Briggs, Texas; Empire Angus, Pleasant Hill, Mo.; Picket Fence Angus Breeders Inc., Grayslake, Ill.; and Gallagher's Farm, Ghent, N.Y.

Quirk lined up Fairfield Hi Guy progeny to win the get-of-sire class and help earn the show's sire-of-the-year award for that bull.

Other group titles were spread among several exhibitors: Hayes Star Ranch of Travelers Rest, S.C., led out the junior get winners; R&J Ranch took the produce of dam award; while Baldrige claimed the best pair and joined efforts with Erdmann to put forth the best six head.

Weaver Angus Farm, Peoria, Ill., was named premier breeder of the show. Winners in that stall area included junior bull calf champion, reserve junior bull calf champion, reserve late junior champion bull and reserve senior champion bull.

The gamut of events included an embryo auction, sale of the Auxiliary scholarship heifer, an address by entertainer Jerry Clower and much socializing. Show manager Joe Bill Meng and chairman Tom Burke are to be commended for a well-run affair.

RESERVE GRAND CHAMPION BULL
Cracker Jack Brutus 512

The 3-11-82 son of Loma Lanes Cracker Jack 12J, owned by S/2 Angus, Leo's Angus Ranch and LeRoy Erdmann, was exhibited by Jim Baldrige. Selected late junior champion, he measured 58 1/4 inches at the hip and weighed 1,495 lb.

Jim Baldrige and LeRoy Erdmann exhibited the best six head.

Quirk Land & Cattle Co. put together Fairfield Hi Guy progeny to win the senior get-of-sire class.

Edition four of the Futurity's unique "National Embryo Auction" pulled in a total of $63,400 to average $6,340 on the ten featured matings.

Deep Down Ranch, Paluxy, Texas, paid top price of $10,100 to claim their choice of the offering—an embryo from Sir Wms Patricia 982 by Pine Drive Big Sky, consigned by Claverack Angus, Claverack, N.Y. Empire Angus of Pleasant Hill, Mo., and Gallagher's Farm Inc. of Ghent, N.Y., placed the next highest bid of $8,200 on an embryo out of 301 Candolier Lineback 742 by Progression, consigned by Shady Brook Farm, Leoma, Tenn. Cobble Pond Farm, Sharon, Conn., then valued a Gallagher's consignment at $8,000; their bid went on a mating of Hedgerows Jestress 5209 and Pine Drive Big Sky.

Entertainer Jerry Clower addressed the Monday luncheon crowd and encouraged listeners to believe in themselves. You must remember, he said, you are the best there is . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Stremling (center and left, above) traveled from Seattle, Wash., to take in Futurity events and supported the American Angus Auxiliary generously while in Kentucky. They bid $850 to have Rachel Breck (second from left) of Sharon, Conn., create a special needlework piece. Anne Patton Gorham (at right, above and left) Auxiliary president, was also smiling when Mr. and Mrs. Warren Ratty of Leo's Angus, Garden City, Mo., bid $350 for the surprise package offered during the annual Auxiliary auction.

Weaver Angus Farm, Peoria, Ill., was named premier exhibitor of the 165-head show. Jerry Helgren of Grayslake, Ill. and Mrs. Joe Ellis of Greentown, Ind., present the award to Bob Weaver.

Windy Acres Angus, Harrison, Neb., was recognized during the show for exhibiting "Triple Crown" winner Windac Class 1752. A portrait of the Futurity, North American and National Western grand champion was presented to Warren Wackman (right), owner of Windy Acres. Greg Krueger, West Grove, Pa., last year's recipient of a similar award, makes the presentation.
