

intage cars, a beautiful horse hitch, great weather and friendly people came together in Tulsa, Okla., at the 31st National Junior Angus Show (NJAS). From start to finish, the Oklahoma Junior Angus Association (OJAA) "had their road signs in place" to create a wonderful experience for the junior members, parents and Angus enthusiasts attending this event.

Trucks and trailers from across the United States rolled into the Tulsa Exposition Center, bringing with them the dreams and goals of hundreds of juniors making the trip to the second-largest NJAS. Nearly 700 exhibitors from 33 states exhibited 1,029 head of cattle. Forty states were represented at the national junior event.

Even though many dreams and goals were attained during the week of competition and activities, most juniors discovered the real rewards in life don't always come from a first-place ribbon. The real rewards come from the friendships and relationships developed during this time.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Construction is constantly underway to make the road being traveled better for the future. NJAS contests, competitions and activities are much like the road construction we experience when traveling. NJAS activities help prepare our juniors for the future by providing experience and training today.

The NJAS is much more than a cattle show. While the cattle give the juniors a reason to join together, the growth and experiences learned while working and competing together prepare these young people for a better future. Each of the 11 contests throughout the week provide juniors with the opportunity to improve their personal skills individually and as a team.

WORKERS AHEAD

The NJAS construction crew provided hours of hard work to make this event a success. This crew included volunteers, sponsors and donors who donated time, resources and financial support. A special thanks goes out to the OJAA members and parents for their dedication and commitment to this show. The Oklahoma Angus Association also stepped forward with financial and physical assistance.

The American Angus Association Board of Directors and the American Angus Auxiliary were both integral parts of the construction crew, providing resources and hours of time. Angus breeders and many state associations, both junior and adult, also donated money and labor for this event.

Finally, special thanks are due to the volunteers who judged contests, served food, helped in the hospitality area, cleaned the barns and tie-outs, helped in the showring, and did anything else that needed to be done. Thanks for making the 1999 NJAS possible; it could not have happened without you.

BUCKLE UP

Get ready for the future by preparing today. The National Junior Angus Association (NJAA) is working to help junior members prepare for a smooth ride into the future by providing contests aimed at important life skills. Because of these contests, juniors have many different opportunities for developing personal skills, acquiring extended education and becoming involved. The only limiting factor is personal desire.

We believe in our junior members and want to see them succeed. By developing life skills through the junior Angus program, our future leaders will be well-prepared.

Each day we grow. Each day we encounter new road signs in life that challenge us to make choices about the road ahead. I hope every one of the juniors and Angus enthusiasts who traveled to Tulsa realizes the wonderful opportunities provided for them by the hosts and the sponsors of the 1999 "Take Me Back to Tulsa" National Junior Angus Show.
