Don't Miss Range Beef Cow Symposium XXIII

If traveling to Rapid City, S.D., December 3-5 didn't work into your schedule this year, attend the meeting online at www.rangebeefcow.com

The Angus Journal's event coverage site will feature streaming live video courtesy of LiveAuctions.tv. After the meeting, visit the site's newsroom for our traditional package of post-convention coverage, including staff-written summaries, PowerPoints, proceedings, audio and other materials.

The Range Beef Cow Symposium is a joint effort of the Extension services from South Dakota State University, Colorado State University, the University of Wyoming and the University of Nebraska. The symposium regularly attracts more than 900 ranchers and industry affiliates. It includes a two-and-one-half day educational program, bull-pen sessions with the speakers each evening and a trade show with displays from the beef industry.

This year's program will include such topics as policy and trade issues, pregnant cow nutrition, limit-feeding high-energy diets, post artificial insemination (AI) nutrition, managing cow costs, using technology to improve efficiency, understanding how to use DNA tools, optimal range management, and many others.
