Angus Foundation Raises More Than $11,300 at NJAS

The annual silent auction brings in unrestricted funds to be used throughout the year.

by Amber Wahlgren, American Angus Association

During the 2021 National Junior Angus Show (NJAS) July 11-17 in Grand Island, Neb., the Angus Foundation hosted their annual silent auction to raise unrestricted funds for its mission of funding and supporting education, youth and research within the Angus breed and agricultural industry. The Angus Foundation uses the money raised for numerous scholarships, conferences and research projects.

“It is amazing to see the incredible assortment of items so many members donated to be part of the return of the silent auction,” says Thomas Marten, Angus Foundation executive director. “In fact, we had our second highest number of items since the silent auction began in 2005. Not only do the funds raised grow the Angus Fund which provides financial support for key programs like LEAD (Leaders Engaged in Angus Development), the silent auction is fun. Many families enjoy perusing a menagerie of treasures from handmade quilts and artwork to historical Angus items and gift baskets.”

The silent auction was open throughout the week and offered 157 items this year, ranging from home decorations to items of historical significance to the Angus breed. NJAS attendees filtered in and out of the silent auction booth checking on their items, placing bids and pledging their support to the betterment of the Angus breed. Items were donated from across the country and prompted several bidding wars over who would take home the prize.

Top sellers

Shaw Bros. Cattle, Fairfield, Neb., purchased the top-selling item for $399, which was a custom farm/ranch sign donated by Jennez/Jen Marteniz, Wanette, Okla.

The second high-selling item was a framed vintage American Angus Association bull ad purchased for $350 by Elizabeth Harsh, Radnor, Ohio. The item was donated by the Angus Foundation and Association.

Yankee Springs Dairy, Wayland, Mich., purchased the third high-selling lot. The 16” 4mm Navajo pearls, 19.5” turquoise necklace and 20” 6mm Navajo pearls donated by Handmade by CNO/Ciara Raithel, Auxvasse, Mo., and brought $330.
