The Angus Foundation recently hosted its annual silent auction in conjunction with the 2022 National Junior Angus Show (NJAS) in Kansas City, Mo. The auction hit record-setting heights, raising more than $17,000 in unrestricted funds to aid the Angus Foundation's mission of supporting education, youth and research for the Angus breed. For the first time, the auction was available online via the auction platform Angus Live. Funds raised will support numerous scholarships, conferences and research projects.

"It's incredible to see the generosity of our Angus family when looking at the impressive list of items donated," says Jaclyn Upperman, Angus Foundation executive director. "We were excited to make this annual event available online this year."

The silent auction was open July 5-9 and featured 148 sale lots, ranging from historical Angus artifacts to event ticket packages. With a variety of items donated by generous Angus enthusiasts, the auction offered something for everyone. Through the support of AngusLive.com, bidding was encouraged from show attendees in Kansas City and those at home.
