New look for AAA Login

The American Angus Association rolled out an updated look to its AAA Login website. Taking a cue from the current look of smartphones and tablet devices, the login site is intended to be more user-friendly for any producer looking to access or submit data on their herd.

Gone is the Classic Menu page of multiple tabs that, in total, contained more than 300 link options. Instead, the home login page has been broken down into six different categories or graphic buttons (see Fig. 1). Pop-up descriptions for what can be found under each button are visible as the user hovers over a specific button.

For more information, see the "Login Lowdown" column in the September issue.
