

Editor's Mailbox

► Readers' viewpoints submitted to our staff

Readership survey comments

I'm still absorbing all of the new DNA info and its ranking system. All additional information would be welcome!

— Michael Hora, Washington, Iowa

Guess we are using the right EPDs (expected progeny differences) to pick our bulls. The last two groups of data of our own raising at U.S. Premium Beef have graded 100% Choice, 56.2% Prime, and what wasn't Prime were all CABs [Certified Angus Beef® (CAB®) brand] but one, and it was Black Canyon Premium Reserve.

— Gene Wagner, Concordia, Mo.

I like articles on farmers and how they work — pictures.

— Lori Meade, Elmer, Minn.

March Facebook cover photo contest

To combat the persisting cold, dreary weather, the Angus Journal Facebook page hosted a Facebook cover photo contest of cute calves. Fans could submit photos of their calves, all of which were posted in a photo album. Votes were counted by photo "likes" by fans of the Angus Journal Facebook page. Thirty-eight photos were submitted by press time, and voting was concluded March 14. The winning photo was featured as the Facebook cover photo. Here are a few of the submitted photos and comments.

Please find attached a couple photo submissions for your contest, and thank you so much for having this! It's really great that so many people share their photos and their love of raising cattle, Angus cattle!

— Gin & Matt Fuhrer

The calf closest is my first AI (artificial insemination) calf and the other is my first ET (embryo transfer) calf. The AI calf is a heifer out of SAV Mustang. The other is a bull calf out of CRA Bextor. We are relatively new in Angus.

— Max McCoy, Pleasant View Farm, Ravenswood, W.Va.

Cathy Davis

Suzette Bergeson

Max McCoy

Suzette Bergeson

Kelli Hutchings

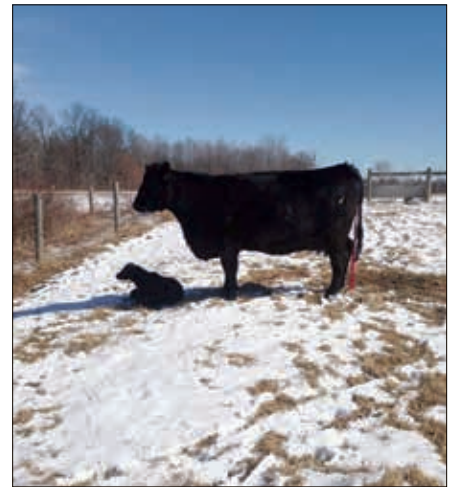

Kelli Hutchings

Kelli Hutchings

Gin Fuhrer

Karl Gillette

Rebekah Mendenhall

Stephanie Nichelle

Stacie Meneses

Meghan Anderson

