Comments From The Sale Manager - Double R Bar Ranch Vol. IX

On behalf of the American Angus Hall of Fame, it is an honor and a privilege to be working with Bob Dragani and his family on this 9th Annual Production Sale. It is always one of the fall season highlights as the Double R Bar Ranch has developed a premier program backed by the very best cow families in the business. Bob and his crew have spent countless hours in developing a program with a foundation second to none.

Bob has gone and found donor females that have tremendous phenotype, outstanding maternal genetics and fleshing ability along with having the performance and power that every cattleman wants in their program. He then has concentrated in breeding cattle that are multidimensional for the Angus breed. He has concentrated on incorporating balanced EPDs into these cow families without sacrificing the phenotype that both seedstock and commercial cattleman want and need. As you flip through this book you will find just that.

This year we are starting with a very exceptional individual in Lot 1; he is a standout herd sire prospect that is the very best bull ever raised in the Double R Bar program, Double R Bar Exceptional E247. This bull has a unique combination of low birth weight and high growth without sacrificing carcass genetics. He is the #1 bull in the breed among non-parent sires for low birth coupled with the highest combination of $W and $B you can find in AHIR data.

As you continue in this sale offering, you will find a diverse offering, which has been planned, and the breeding focus of Double R Bar Ranch, knowing not everyone needs or wants the same thing in our breed. As you flip through the sale offering, you will find a full sister and maternal sisters to our lead off bull. You will also find daughters of the maternal sister to Quaker Hill Rampage 0A36, maternal sisters to Coleman Charlo 0256, a full sister-in-blood to SAV Resource 1441 and the #1 $B daughter among non-parent females by the Double R Bar herd sire, SAV Thunderbird 9061, along with an array of other females that will go on to make impacts in your herds for years to come.

Again, hats off to Bob and Ines for putting such a great sale offering together and hosting such a great event on the last Sunday of September. If you have never been to the ranch we urge all of you to take time out of your schedules to do so. The hospitality is second to none.

We encourage all of you to take the time to study on this year's sale offering, and if you have any questions please feel free to call the farm or the American Angus Hall of Fame at (816) 532-0811.

Sincerely,

Tom Burke

HISTORY OF DOUBLE R BAR RANCH

Nestled among the cornfields just miles off Highway 30 in Northern Indiana lies an expansive cattle ranch. Bob Dragani has been acquiring small farms in the surrounding area to develop Double R Bar Ranch into the largest Black Angus ranch in Indiana. This is not a pie in the sky dream. Instead, it is a dream that has been growing inside Bob since he was a young boy in New York.

Bob was born in 1942 just miles from the hustle and bustle of New York City. When he was 9 years old, his parents packed up his two younger brothers and his Irish grandmother and moved the whole family to a sprawling farmhouse located on 44 acres in Mahopac, New York. A house, by the way, that was built before the Revolutionary War. This is where Bob developed his love for the outdoors and livestock. Bob could always be found roaming the fields and woods with his favorite Collie, Buck. (Interesting side note: Buck was destined to be an actor on the Lassie TV show but Bob loved him so much as a puppy that when the producers came to pick through the pups, Bob hid the pick of the litter until they were long departed with 7 pups out of the litter.) His family kept virtually every barnyard animal imaginable but nothing pedigreed. Bob's childhood days were spent learning the basic operations of animal husbandry, maintaining a property and helping them both grow in a productive manner.

All of the animals on the farm came from the sale barn. Each summer the family would attend the famous Dutchess County Fair in Rhinebeck and he would see some of the finest livestock. He was envious of the owners and dreamed of owning animals like those displayed. Shortly before Bob graduated high school, he visited Dwight Eisenhower's farm in Gettysburg and saw his herd of pedigreed Angus. That was the moment he decided that someday he wanted to be able to breed cattle as good as Ike had on display.

As Bob matured into a young man, he had conflicting ambitions of becoming a Forester for the National Park Service or a career officer in the Army. He hoped to work out West and further develop his love and understanding of the great outdoors. He applied and was accepted at Syracuse University for forestry. He also contacted his Congressman and successfully obtained an appointment for West Point. Unfortunately, he had to wait a year after high school for the appointment. So, he decided to attend college somewhere in the interim and then go to West Point. His grandmother had a deep love for the University of Notre Dame and prodded him to apply to the school.

When he was accepted, she and his mother convinced him that Northern Indiana was the best place for him to pursue his education. Much to Bob's dismay, Notre Dame did not offer a degree in Forestry. They did, however, offer an ROTC program. Bob was well-suited for the structure and education that the Army training provided. After his freshmen year, he didn't want to start college over and stayed at ND. Upon graduation, he ranked in the upper 5% of his class and was named a Distinguished Military Graduate and awarded a commission in the Regular Army. The plan at that point was to have a long career as an Army officer, to retire to a job in industry and then pursue his agricultural dreams in the West.

There is one part of Bob's tenure at ND that sways the rest of this history lesson. During his senior year at school, Bob was attending a party with friends. There was talk that some young women from South Bend would be in attendance. At this time, Notre Dame was an all-male university. A sure-fire way to liven up any party was to add members of the opposite sex! One of these women had to be convinced by her friends to attend the celebration, she was not a typical party goer. However, this was a monumental decision for her, for, it was at this party that Ines Frobeen was introduced to Bob and, as they say, the rest is history. Bob and Ines were married in 1965.

Bob had a number of very challenging assignments in the Army. At one point he was the commanding officer of an ordnance battalion. He had a stint at Fort Benning to attend Airborne training. And he became very involved with developing improved logistical supply concepts and taught at the US Army War College. He attained the rank of captain.

The 4+ years that Bob spent with the military provided him an education that has influenced most every decision he has made in his business career. He resigned his commission and accepted a position with the Bendix Corporation. Bob and Ines moved back to South Bend and settled into civilian life. They started a family in Indiana, Kristine was born and shortly after, Rob was added to the family. They were transferred to Beloit, Wisconsin and added Patrick and Marie to the clan.

After 11 years with Bendix, Bob was ready for a change and accepted a position with Rockwell in Knox, Indiana as their Director of Materials. When notified that he needed to move his family to Ohio to stay with Rockwell, Bob decided it was time to branch out on his own. In 1982, he purchased Northern Indiana Screw Products (now, Northern Indiana Manufacturing) in Bourbon, Indiana. Bob grew the screw machine business through six acquisitions over the years and later bought a customer in Chesterton, Indiana, Electro Seal Corporation, a sight glass manufacturer.

The prosperity of these businesses allowed Bob to finally realize a dream that had been in the back of his mind since he left his family farm in NY. In 2005, Bob purchased a small piece of property. On eight acres, Bob placed his first three calves, two Angus and one Hereford. Bob's oldest grandson, Robbie, showed an interest in the cattle from the first day that they set foot on that property. Bob purchased some Holstein feeder calves for Robbie to show at the Marshall County 4-H fair. Robbie fell in love with the show ring. Over the years, Robbie spent countless hours showing Angus calves, adding many ribbons to his show box. Robbie's fascination developed into a deep interest in the genetics of the breed and working to strengthen the depth of Bob's stock. It only seemed fitting that the ranch should be named after the two R's that loved to be surrounded by the cattle and the lush pastures. Thus, Double R Bar Ranch was born. After several years, they decided to focus on the Angus breed only.

The ranch has exploded in the 12 years since Bob entered the Angus world. After 16 more property acquisitions, the ranch now spreads across 900+ acres. He has purchased and bred his cattle to reach numbers of more than 800 head. During this rapid growth, Bob has worked diligently to better the breed, spending countless hours researching genetics, attending auctions and seminars, and serving as both a board member and President of the Indiana Angus Association, and the Northwest Indiana Angus Association and a board member of the IBCA. Breeding superior cattle has been Bob's goal since that monumental day in the summer of 2006.

The prospects for Double R Bar ranch are endless. The genetics are an integral part of the program, working to create a breed that can prosper for years and years to come. Bob's love of forestry still shines through as well, as he spends much of his time and energy ensuring that his properties are both functional and maintainable for future generations. With 16 grandchildren that love to chase wild kittens in the calving barn, eat family meals in the sale barn and walk the pastures looking for nursing calves, that may in truth be the most important reason Bob spends so much of his time nurturing his ranch. If Double R Bar continues to be an upstanding and integral part of the Angus community, then future generations will continue to feel the impact of that country boy from New York that just wanted to wander some green fields with a few great cattle by his side.
